Joseph James Forrester was more than a winemaker, artist, pioneer photographer and botanist, he was also a surveyor and cartographer. His legacy, more than any of his other avocations, is his map making. His "Great Map", The Portuguese Douro and Adjacent Country, is at once, both handsome and rare, indeed quite handsome and even rarer. Like all 'great' maps, it is historically significant as well. It can certainly be said that it is the crown jewel of Port Literature and most worthy of being reproduced in the spirit of the original.

Richard Mayson is an internationally-known writer and authority on the wines of Portugal, especially Ports and Madeira's. His works include; Port and the Douro, Portugal's Wines and Wine Makers, Port In a Storm, The Story of Dow's 1798-1998, etc.
Publisher's note: Thanks, Richard!

Debbie Hall was formerly with the British Library Map Room and now with the Bodleian Library.

Isaac Oelgart is a publisher, rare book bibliographer, book collector, fine book maker, book designer and, as equally important, a Portonian.
